Introduction by Floralwood

We are not in the iris business as yet, but here are three items of our own that we are very proud of and we know you will like them.

TOMMY'S PINK: 60". A grand flower of smooth pink, falls and standards being identical in color, a clean haft with a clear tangerine beard. Foliage broad and high and increases fast. Garden visitors claim this one of the finest pinks they have ever seen. Net. $10.00

ARLENE WOOD: 1953. The heaviest ruffled iris to date in dove orchid standards and a clean lilac orchid in the falls, a tightly closed dome. A very clean haft and beard of soft lemon. This iris has been acclaimed by many iris judges as the very best in the class. The bloom is very large and the branching is excellent. Net. $6.00

JANE HOFFORD: 1953. The exact counterpart of Arlene Wood in size and form, the only difference being in color which is a full rich cream in the standards and falls of creamy yellow trimmed in lemon. A very clean haft and a matching beard of lemon. A very heavy ruffled iris and one that is sure to please. Net. $6.00

AGAIN we repeat, if any of the above iris does not come up to your expectations we shall be glad to give you credit for the amount paid in any items from our general listing of daylilies.

DAYLILY CULTURE

The daylily has been called the "lazy man's flower" by many but this is only partially correct. It is true that you may have success in any kind of soil and under most any condition, but, with a little extra care, you may have the very finest in large and colorful bloom.

Any good barnyard manure worked in around your plants in the fall is beneficial but be wary of using a large amount of commercial fertilizers as the daylily does not seem to absorb them as some plants do.

If you live in a zone of hard winters and icy coverings during the dormant period, would suggest that you do your planting in the spring by all means to eliminate winter loss. Allow your plants to form large clumps for beautiful effects, and when you do make divisions, do not plant huge divisions as they seem to sulk when so planted. Keep them well watered when planted until they are well established.

Some varieties do not show their best in bloom for the first year and for this reason should not be closely judged until they are well established.
